RAPID ONSET

PROLONGED

HIGH DEGREE of TOLERANCE

'EVIDORM,' because of its 'Evipan' content, causes rapid induction of sleep, often within fifteen minutes of administration. It is indicated particularly in cases of nervous insomnia where sleep is slow in occurrence.

The action of 'Phanodorm' Calcium, the other component of 'EVIDORM,' is slower in onset than 'Evipan' but persists for six to eight hours. Sleep closely resembling the normal is produced and the patient awakes refreshed and rested.

'EVIDORM' has been subjected to animal and clinical experiments to determine the optimum proportions of the two hypnotics with regard to their efficiency and tolerance. Side-effects and "hangover" are rarely encountered.

Introducing

‘PALUDRINE’

The New Antimalarial

The unique antimalarial properties of ‘Paludrine’ were discovered as the result of systematic investigations carried out by a team of I.C.I. research workers in collaboration with clinicians in the field of tropical medicine.

It is established that ‘Paludrine’ represents an important advance on quinine and mepacrine, both in its antimalarial action and relative freedom from toxicity, but extensive clinical trials with the drug are now proceeding with a view to elucidating its full potentialities.

In the meantime ‘Paludrine’ is not available for sale, all supplies being reserved for use in further clinical investigations.

A leaflet providing some preliminary information on ‘Paludrine’ will be forwarded on request

STAPHYLOCOCCI

PENICILLIN

and other ANTISEPTICS

THE miracle of Penicillin as a means of saving life and combating those Staphylococcal Infections previously so resistant as to be generally fatal, serves to focus attention on the extreme importance of Staphylococci as infecting organisms—an importance which is daily becoming more widely recognised.

Penicillin is not generally available and it is important that other agents highly lethal to Staphylococci should not be overlooked. It is not suggested that these other agents can replace Penicillin in every case for there are conditions for which Penicillin is unique. There are, however, many instances in which other agents than Penicillin can be employed for the destruction of Staphylococci either therapeutically or as a prophylactic. Such an agent is O-SYL.

O-SYL, unlike many other antiseptic substances, has a lethal action against Staphylococci identical with that for Streptococci. O-SYL is, therefore, par excellence, the antiseptic to remember where staphylococcal infections are in question.

Previous announcements have dealt with the several aspects of Staphylococcal Infections less generally recognised by Practising Physicians than by Research Workers. Reprints of such announcements dealing with:—

Proof that O-SYL is non-selective as well as being very highly potent against Staphylococci and Streptococci is found in the following figures:—

PROTEIN DEFICIENCY

A new edition of an interesting and helpful booklet

We shall be pleased to send a copy on receipt of a postcard or telephone request.

The potential value of enzymic digests in the treatment of acute and chronic hypoproteinaemia is very much in the minds of medical men at the present time. Recent research work on the simple breakdown products of protein metabolism — the amino acids — has shown that they provide the best source of nitrogen in all conditions where the digestion of ordinary protein is impossible or is impaired. These simple "building units" of the protein molecule are rapidly absorbed by the alimentary tract. They stimulate tissue repair, relieve nutritional deficiency and oedema, and build up body reserves depleted by inadequate and enforced low diets.

'PRONUTRIN' is prepared by the enzymic digestion of casein; a method that retains the essential amino acids of the protein and provides the nitrogen needs of the body in the form of a palatable water-soluble powder for oral administration.

Acid Milk

IN INFANT FEEDING

THE wealth of buffer substances in milk results in the absorption of considerable quantities of acid in the digestive tract. In cases of under-nourishment, functional or otherwise, it is reasonable to give the infant the kind of nourishment which will necessitate the least effort, and controlled acidification offers a means of reducing demands on the secretory functions. In view of the varied nutritional requirements of conditions requiring acid milk feeding, the following range of products is available.

LACIDAC

SEPARATED

Almost fat-free. Suitable for temporary feeding of infants incapable of tolerating fat.

LACIDAC

HALF CREAM

An intermediate grade for less severe cases and for graduation to normal feeding.

LACIDAC

FULL CREAM

Suitable for long term use or as a final stage of graduation to normal feeding.

PROLAC

Of approximately half cream fat standard but with increased protein as required in gastro-enteritis, etc.

Ribena therapy in gum infections

Modern treatment of gum infections such as ulcerative gingivitis includes the administration of vitamin C as a valuable adjunct to local therapy on the grounds that hypovitaminosis-C lowers resistance to infection of the gingival tissues.

Many physicians favour the use of a natural vitamin C preparation, holding the view that associated food factors, other than ascorbic acid, may play an important role in the therapeutic effect.

Ribena, prepared from the juice of fresh ripe blackcurrants, provides approximately 20 mg. of vitamin C per fluid ounce, associated with other factors of the vitamin-C complex. It is most palatable, and assimilable by the most delicate digestion.

Ribena is available on prescription as well as for motherhood and infant welfare. Limited supplies are distributed to chemists as equitably as possible throughout the year.
